QUANTICO MARINES DEFEAT GALLAUDET IN FIRST GAME OF SEASON

The first game of the football season for the Marine team at Quantico resulted in a twenty-one to nothing victory over Gallaudet College of Washington, D. C. The college men played a hard and fast game and displayed an excellent type of football but were unable to hold the attack of the heavier Leathernecks. After the first few minutes of the game there could be no doubt about the final outcome as it was apparent that the Marine entry outclassed the opponents.

While the game was interesting and hard fought it was ragged in spots and a few foot-ball "crimes" were committed. There was a good deal of fumbling on both sides though the fumbles of the College were more costly than those of the Marines. The Marine team also showed a lack of condition. In spite of short periods the majority of the men were pretty badly blown and after the first quarter the line did not open up the holes that had been present all through the first period.

Neither team showed anything in the way of an overhead attack. The Marines attempted several passes but the majority were unsuccessful. A part of this was due to a wet playing field and a more or less slippery ball but at any rate more practice is needed in this department.

On the defence the Marines were strong but during the third quarter the light college team braced and drove down the field, going mainly between tackle and end, though getting away for a couple of wide end runs. At this stage of the game the tackles seemed to be permitting themselves to be boxed in and the ends were inclined to drive straight for the play and thereby expose themselves to the chance of being boxed.

There were no outstanding stars on either team. The entire Marine line played excellently until winded. Larson was brilliant as usual at center and added a world of dash to the team by his constant cheer and pep. Kyle played a most aggressive game at tackle but permitted himself to be caught and pinched inside of the play several times. Fellows played good ball while he remained in the game though there was not much to choose between his work and that of McMains who relieved him during the second half. Palmer was the hardest worked member of the backfield and gave an excellent account of himself. Chicknoski who played during the first half of the game seemed to be in the best condition of any member of the backfield. He is fast on his feet and carries the ball well but does not do all that he might in the interference. Yost played a good game and performed the spectacular feature when he caught a runner from behind. This runner had passed the line and was dashing down the field with no one between him and the Marine goal line except the Quarterback. Yost chased him and caught him from the rear. McMains would probably have dropped the runner as he was driving straight toward him and Mac is a sure tackle but the fact remains that Yost caught and dropped the only runner that had a chance to score.

All in all the game was a valuable one. The Marines won and their goal line was never really in danger. The team showed lots of spirit. The line stopped everything that came toward it except in the third quarter. The secondary defense was unusually strong. The backs showed fight and a pleasing ability to pick a hole. The interference was, on the whole, excellent. The faults in evidence were, a lack of condition, a weakness in the forward passing game, a lack of first rate substitutes in the line, (there was plenty of extra backfield material of a first rate quality), and a lack of snap in forming after a play and launching the next play. All the defects are natural ones in the early part of the season and it looks like a no-defeat year.

The schedule for the season as far as can be given at present is as follows: October 14, Parris Island Marines at Quantico; October 21, Tank School Camp Meade at Quantico; October 28, Georgetown University at American League Park, Washington, D. C.; November 4, Submarine Base New London at New London, Conn.; November 11, Mount Washington at Quantico; November 18, Richmond Blues at Quantico; November 25, Randolph Macon at Quantico; December 2, Army at Baltimore.

A second team has been organized and a schedule of games arranged. The games scheduled so far are: Georgetown Freshmen, Virginia Athletic Club and Kayser Military Academy.

The man who is unwilling to study nights will always be compelled to work like the devil days and holidays. He will be an almost-success. There are millions of men in the country who are a success—almost. They are snatches of success, parts of prosperity, because they will not improve themselves after working hours.—The Silent Partner.

RADIO FLASHES FROM RECRUITERS

Trolley Shoots Marine

Under the somewhat startling headline shown above, a news item recently appeared in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, reading as follows: "A revolver cartridge exploded by a trolley car in front of 1331 Arch street this morning sent a bullet through the blouse of Sergeant Benjamin Sayres of the Marine Corps Recruiting service. The sergeant was standing outside the recruiting station. Sergeant Sayres found fragments of the cartridge on the tracks after the trolley passed. He also found a loaded cartridge nearby."

Des Moines Recruiters Entertain Vets

"The Annual Encampment of the G. A. R. took place in this city from September 24 to 30," writes Sergeant T. R. Marchant of the Des Moines recruiting station. "The Marine Corps truck was placed at the disposal of the veterans during their stay and was instrumental in giving them the good time they undoubtedly deserve. Many of the old fellows are getting too weak to even see the town when they hold an encampment and they all appreciated what the Marine Corps did for them. The cars owned by the enlisted personnel were also put to good use outside of our working hours, and it was sometimes late at night when the final trip was made for the old-timers sure like to see everything there is to see when they have their annual holiday."

Using Trucks for Recruiting

An excellent plan has been put into practice lately by several of the recruiting districts. It is the custom, when recruiting trucks are not otherwise employed, to decorate them with posters and drive them through the main streets of the town, stopping now and then to pass out literature and to give short talks about the Marine Corps. Another idea that has been put into practice is the placing of regular "A" signs on the sides of all Marine Corps trucks that are being used in towns and cities. It pays to advertise, and the recruiters realize that fact.

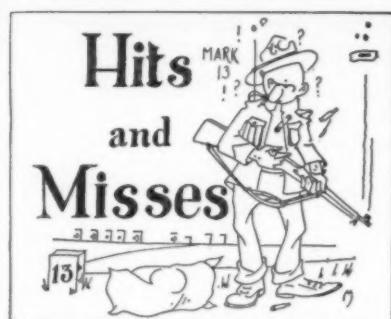

Motion pictures reels, showing the Marines at their varied duties and pastimes, are now being displayed in many movie theatres throughout the East.

U. S. S. PITTSBURG LEAVES FOR LONG CRUISE

With bands playing, a crowd of visitors cheering, and mothers, sisters and sweethearts waving handkerchiefs which were moist with tears, the Cruiser Pittsburgh left on October 2 for an extended cruise in European waters. The ship relieves the Utah as the flagship of the European force and will remain in and around the Mediterranean for at least two years.

The Pittsburgh headed for Gibraltar by way of the Canary Islands. At Gibraltar Vice Admiral A. T. Long will transfer his flag from the Utah. Admiral Long is in general command of all Naval vessels in European waters and in the course of his regular visits and inspections the flagship visits practically every port on the Atlantic and the Mediterranean.

Captain Francis Kelly, formerly of the Sixth Regiment, is the Marine Officer and First Sergeant Arthur Steele, formerly of the U. S. S. Delaware, is first sergeant.

Mistaken Identity

It was a little country town
I was a stranger there,
And as I sauntered up and down
I saw the people stare.

They gazed upon my suit of blue,
They saw my stripes of gold.
My piping braid of carmine shade
Was startling to behold.

And everyone I chanced to pass
With mouth agape would stare;
Perhaps it was my shining brass
That made them turn and glare.

And each one had a puzzled air,
Which was a sign to me
They never had seen anywhere
A Soldier of the Sea.

I sauntered on, and didn't care—
For all of us have seen
A bunch of dumbbells here and there
Who don't know a Marine.

Until I heard a quaint remark
That some street idler made;
It made me wish the night was dark
And I was in the shade.

It got my goat, it did you know,
His words were indiscreet.
He said: "That guy's a C. P. O.
In the Brazilian Fleet."

Our Own World Series Bulletins

We are now able to record for the first time some items from the World Series which have heretofore been kept out of print. If people only knew what a terrible thing a world series is they would treat the whole affair more seriously. For instance:

Shortly after the third game the players held an indignation meeting. They roundly denounced the public. For years they have permitted the public to watch them play ball. They merely take the fans money in order not to offend them. But now, it seems, the public have the supreme nerve to demand a little service for their shekels. The players decided this independent attitude on the part of the public should be promptly discouraged.

Three days before the series started Pitcher Scott developed a pimple on his right heel. It rapidly swelled to the size of a head of a pin. After consulting the best pimple specialists in the United States, it was decided it might be eczema and they advised him not to be rash.

There was an investigation over the condition of the drinking water in the Yank's dugout. It seems the Yanks put their thumbs in the pail when they drink and this had discolored the water slightly. The trouble started when someone suggested the Giants had a finger in it.

Dear Hash Mark: Kindly describe a "plank owner," or in other words a dog-rober.—Straight Duty.

Answer: The terms are synonymous. Both are epithets applied to a soldier, sailor or Marine who accepts tasks in which the arduous duties which commonly fall to men of their profession are conspicuous by their absence. For "Exhibit A." I refer you to the writer of this column.

Kalamazoo, Michigan was greatly excited over the series. It appears someone in that city is a second cousin of the Yanks' mascot.

This Is No Joke

In Maryland, we read, it is illegal for a woman to go through her husband's pockets at night. In our own country it is merely a waste of time.—London Punch.

Dear Hash Mark: What is the difference between the North and South Pole.—Geologist.

Answer: All the difference in the world.

Dear Hash Mark: I have a twenty-one day furlough and am going home. What literature would you recommend my reading during that period?—Student.

Answer: Three weeks.

It's Highbrow, But It's True

(To the Marines in Haiti)

Far from the northern land from whence they came,
They brave fanatic hatreds of a race
Who plunder, rob, and live their lives
of shame,
And hold their country's laws are a disgrace.
But each Marine does not the courage lack
To rid the pagan Cacos from the land,
To risk the knife that stabs him in the back
Or keep the situation well in hand.
Oft' have they trailed the bandit to his lair,
Not knowing, little caring where they go,
Or followed trails that often led to where They risked the bullets of an ambushed foe.
And Haiti has grown better ever since
They brought the golden rule to Port au Prince.

An Official Letter

FROM: Hash Mark, U. S. Marine
TO: Hop Lee, Chinese laundryman.
SUBJECT: Wear and tear on laundry.

1. It has been called to the attention of the writer that shirts, collars and other articles of wearing apparel have been roughly handled in your laundry. You will therefore take precautions to see that the following orders are immediately complied with:

2. Quit putting starch in my Van Heusen collars.

3. Carefully count all my handkerchiefs before you give half of them to some other guy.

4. When you slip me the wrong pair of socks—see that they're mates.

5. It is not compulsory to tear all the buttons off my shirts.

6. Have a heart before you lay a scorching hot iron on my white silk shirt. It set me back six bucks.

7. You sent me some Jane's crepe de chine nightgown in exchange for my regulation pajamas. Where do you get that stuff?

8. You will carefully count, sort, assemble and mark each and every piece of laundry that in the future you may receive from me, and return them when laundered in a condition fit for immediate use.

9. Disregard for the above mentioned suggestions will result in your being knocked for a row of Chinese sampans.

Sincerely Yours

HASH MARK.

Bon Voyage!

YOUR ASSOCIATIONS

By SERGEANT JOHN VAN DER DUSSEN

Did you ever stop to think of the importance of the subject given as the title of this article? You ought to. As a matter of fact there are so many angles from which this subject may be considered that it is difficult to select a definite policy in discussing "Your Associations." Did any of your associates ever give you a clearer or a different point of view on any subject? An answer to this question is not required, for we all know that disposition, character, and ideas are formed and altered through association. Association is not restricted to the selection of suitable friends. You may associate with books, with all sorts of literature. In this way you may claim the greatest thinkers of all time as your associates. One sort of association is as necessary as the other. You may obtain knowledge and learn about fellowship through either or both means.

Associating with your fellowmen is a natural instinct but are all of your fellowmen of an equally high standard. Are they all eager to obtain knowledge? Are they all the products of education? Or are many of them among those who are merely drifting along with those who have no other interest in life beyond living?

If you were invited to a party where you could expect the ladies to converse on nothing except the proper and scientific use of cosmetics, powders, and perfumes, while the gentlemen listened with open mouths, would you accept? Would you expect to be interested? Of course not, for the gain of knowledge or experience is excluded under such conditions. Wanting to be a superunmerry at a party is good only if you can afford to waste valuable time.

A discriminating taste in the selection of associations is of much more value than merely strolling along for the sake of pleasing the narrow minded. While in the Marine Corps you will naturally associate with your fellowmen but the use of a keen judgment in selecting your intimate associates is always essential. Your opportunities for association with good literature and good reading matter are, as it happens, as unlimited as the opportunities for associating with your fellowmen. Your proper and most helpful associations while in the Marine Corps are with the courses of the Marine Corps Institute and through the courses with other students, the instructors, and the authors of the text books themselves. Another means of association open to you is THE LEATHERNECK. A subscription will bring you in contact with those of your fellowmen who have similar interests and are working toward the same objects.

"THE BEST BUNCH OF MEN IN THE WORLD"

The following letter was received this week and we take great pleasure in publishing it. The letter speaks for itself and additional comment is unnecessary. However, we might remark that we agree entirely with the writer in all he says:

Philadelphia, Pa.
 October 6, 1922

Dear Sir:

Enclosed you will find two dollars for which please send me the Leatherneck to the address given below. If possible I would like you begin with October 7 issue.

Was discharged a short time ago and THE LEATHERNECK is the only means of keeping in touch with the best bunch of men in the world so don't miss sending me any of the issues.

With best wishes for the continued success of your magazine I am

Sincerely yours
 JOHN J. GAYNOR,

ANOTHER STUDENT LIKES HIS COURSE

The following letter was written by a student in the Foreign Trade Course of the Marine Corps Institute. The letter was addressed to his instructor at the Institute. It is one of many similar letters which have been received. This letter expresses very clearly the students' idea of the courses offered by the M. C. I. and of the service rendered by the instructors. The letter is as follows:

"It gives me great pleasure to write to you and to give you my frank opinion of the help which your school so well renders. Although I have received but few lessons I can honestly state that I have never before realized what opportunities I had for success in life. The lessons are brief and well prepared and I feel that should I ever secure a position where this course would be of use to me I could handle any matter which could arise and purely because of the knowledge acquired through the Marine Corps Institute. Allow me to thank you for the kind cooperation in the past and in advance for the future."

U. S. S. TENNESSEE RESUMES

PUBLICATION OF PAPER

THE LEATHERNECK is pleased to note the revival of the Tennessee Tar, the ship's paper of the U. S. S. Tennessee. We have missed this paper from among our exchanges for some time and are glad to welcome it back. Now that all papers have to be printed on the beach it is quite a task to keep a ship's paper running and all concerned are entitled to much credit for the prompt resumption of publication upon the arrival of the ship in Bremerton Yard.

We enjoy this paper and consider it excellent.

How Would You Like to Earn $83 a Day?

By Richard W. Samson

THE other day I spent a few precious hours with Mr. J. F. James, President of the Mascot Stove Manufacturing Company, of Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Fifteen years ago he was working as a shipping clerk in a stove foundry for $9 a week. Today he is making $25,000 a year, or $83 a day. As Mike Murphy, the famous college trainer, used to say—"You just can't beat a man who refuses to be beaten."

Few men have started life with as barren prospects as J. F. James. Born in the mountains of East Tennessee, forced to go to work before he had completed his education, he might easily have fallen into the rut of mediocrity and stayed there.

But one day, glancing through a magazine, he came across an advertisement which appealed to him so strongly that he read it twice and then tore it out of the magazine to read again.

It told how thousands of other men had won promotion through spare time study. How they had trained themselves to do bigger things! How they were ready and waiting when Opportunity came!

That day J. F. James made a resolution. He said that what others were doing, he could do! So he tore out that familiar coupon, marked it, signed it, and mailed it to Scranton. Though he did not fully realize it at the time, he had taken the first step along the Up-road to Success.

So it came about that J. F. James studied while other men wasted their time shooting pool or playing pinocle or watching the clock. They are still doing it today—worn, discouraged men who cry out that Fate is against them and that "they never had a chance."

Doomed forever to small wages, fighting a losing fight against poverty, missing the really good things of life, they cannot understand how "Jimmy" James got ahead.

"I didn't make a drudge of myself," said Mr. James the other day. "I had time for baseball and everything that seemed worth while. I had just as much fun as the other fellows, but instead of wasting time, I turned it into gold through my I. C. S. course.

"Every hour I invested in study has paid me better than any other investment I ever made.

"It has brought me a large income—the satisfaction that goes with success—the money to buy anything I want—a good home and an automobile for my wife and children—the esteem of all my friends. I feel that I owe the I. C. S. a debt that I can never repay. They made my success possible."

What about you? Are you satisfied to stand just where you are? Or do you really want to be somebody? It all depends on what you do in your spare time.

The difference between a successful man and a failure is almost always a matter of training.

As Andrew Carnegie said:—"Although my whole works were to be burned down, it wouldn't be a fatal blow—if I still had my organization, my trained men."

You can be one of these trained men. You can get the training you need right at home in spare time.

For thirty years, the International Correspondence Schools have been helping men out of routine drudgery into work they like—helping them to win advancement, to have happy, prosperous homes, to know the joy of getting ahead in business and in life.

In offices, mills, shops, stores, factories—in every line of endeavor—I. C. S. men are "the first to be hired and the last to be fired."

How much longer are you going to wait before taking the step that is bound to bring you more money? Isn't it better to start now than to wait five years and then realize what the delay has cost you?

One hour after supper each night spent with the I. C. S. in the quiet of your own home will prepare you for the position you want.

Here is all we ask: Without cost, without obligating yourself in any way, mark and mail the coupon. It takes but a moment of your time, but it is the most important single thing you can do today! Do it right now!

Phyllis: He toed the mark.—American Legion Weekly.

A guide was showing an old lady over the zoo and took her to a cage occupied by a kangaroo.

"Here, madam," he said, "we have a native of Australia."

The old lady stared at it in horror. "Good gracious," she said, "and to think my sister married one of them things."—Exchange.

The Marines went on liberty in their "Blues" without wearing belts for so many years that now they have adopted the practice of wearing belts, everybody instinctively looks for their side-arms. The belts are a big improvement, at that.

The Marines never take a back seat in rifle competitions. The scores rolled up by the Leathernecks at Wakefield, Mass., and Sea Girt, N. J., were enough to make their competitors "read 'em and weep."

Do You Know—

That the sport of falconry is still in existence, and an Englishman catches from 16 to 24 hawks each year in Holland and ships them to the Old Hawking Club at Lyndhurst, England?

That the first amber in large quantities discovered on the North American Continent is that recently found in the hundreds of tons of culm from collieries in the Nicola Valley of British Columbia?

That wireless messages are being received at experimental stations in Australia in one-fifteenth of a second from London and Paris, and one-eighteenth of a second from New York? The cost of wireless messages will be a third less than cable messages, according to estimates.

That the color of birds can be changed within five generations by keeping them in a white room, with surroundings of white and attended by persons attired in white?

That while his train was traveling at 25 miles an hour, a locomotive fireman on Staten Island, New York, jumped from the engine into a creek and pulled out a schoolboy, who had been struck by the engine and thrown into 15 feet of water?

That the first known advertisement appeared in a Greco-Roman drinking cup, it is said? It bears the inscription, "Made by Ennion. Let the buyer remember."

That to convey the size of the new Majestic, the largest ship in the world, the following statistics are given? Its tonnage equals that of the entire Spanish Armada which attempted to conquer England in 1588; the interior space equals that of 400 eight-room houses.

That the coal fields of Pennsylvania contain 43,830,000 short tons of recoverable coal—sufficient to meet the demands for the next 290 years at the present rate of consumption?

Not Unlikely

The new maid-of-all-work had been sent down to the brook to fetch a pail of water but stood gazing at the flowing stream, apparently lost in thought.

DISTANT RUMBLERS FROM SANTO DOMINGO

By GEORGE

Most Marines in the states have forgotten that it is required that all Marines on duty in the field wear the well known identification tags. To tell the truth a lot of the Devil Dogs down here had likewise forgotten that important fact. As a result of a recent inspection the most common sound hereabouts is that of the little brass hammer on the little round disc. The writer had a set made to order (of the C. O.).

While you northerners are talking football we are just getting our baseball teams in shape. Most of our teams are disorganized through the loss of several good players who were members of the "Near-Beer Detail," as those who have returned to the states are called. However a large number of good players arrived with the latest draft on the Chaumont and we should soon have as good teams if not better than before.

The 114th Company engaged in an expedition against the 44th Company out in Chicharrenes. However, two truck loads of rooters were not enough and all they brought back was a determination to do better next time. The score was 11 to 9 if anyone is interested.

The Post Exchange has just received—no, don't get excited—we have no use for your money—a new cash register. The steward may be seen at any time practicing the old familiar tune "this place will soon be mine."

The rifle range was opened last week and will remain open until all who have not fired for record this year have had the opportunity.

Boston Seeks to Recruit Band

Almost every district is able to add a musician or two to the musical organizations of the Marine Corps when they are called upon to do so, but the District of Boston is endeavoring to bring into the fold an entire band, leader and all. A band of twenty-five pieces has recently been delighting the good folks of Providence, R. I., and it is the ambition of the Boston recruiters to enlist them all in the Corps. It looks very much as if their ambition would soon be fulfilled.

M. C. I. PASSES HIGH MARK IN ENROLLMENT

Last week the Marine Corps Institute passed all previous enrollment marks. A greater number of students are now enrolled than at any period since the establishment of the Institute. The growth of the interest in educational matters has been gradual but positive and the fact that the number of enrolled students has gradually increased from none to 5,081 indicates quite positively that the Marine Corps system of personal education for all its members is not to be considered as a fad of the moment but as an established and permanent activity of the Corps.

Those who were not particularly enthusiastic over the establishment of the Institute generally gave as their reason the opinion that the men of the Corps did not want education. The steady growth of the M. C. I. and the ever increasing number of active and enthusiastic students is a direct refutation of this idea. At the present time the strength of the entire Marine Corps is approximately 19,000 men. If all of these were to be formed in squads there would be 2,375 squads. In each of these squads one man in each rank would be a student in the Institute, in every seventh squad there would be three students, and in seven squads one entire rank would be composed of students.

WASHINGTON MARINES LOSE FIRST GAME

The football team from the Marine Barracks, Washington, D. C., lost their first game by the score of six to nothing. The game, however, was played mainly for practice and the quarters were only six minutes long. The Southern Athletic Club, which furnished the opposition in the game, is rated as one of the strongest independent teams in the District.

The only score of the game was the result of an intercepted forward pass. Previous to this play, which came two minutes from the end of the fourth quarter, the Marines had been leading in every department of the game. The Athletic Club had not made a single first down and the net gain through rushing the ball had been only seven yards. The Marine team threatened to score during the whole game but fumbles at critical points ruined the chances.

The Marines meet the Mercury Athletic Club tomorrow. This club was the runner up for the District championship last year. With an additional week's practice the Marines should give a good account of themselves.
